

IOWA BOOTLEGGERS GIVEN LONG TERM

Henry Jarek, at Muscatine Sent to Jail for Six Months and Fined $1,000 by the Court.

FOR VIOLATION OF INJUNCTION

Fails to Obey Order to Cease Sale of Liquor in Prohibition Territory—Scored By Judge.

Muscatine, Iowa, Aug. 30.—"I don't know what you and others like you expect. Perhaps this reason why you so persistently and flagrantly violate the law is because you expect leniency from the court. If so you are mistaken. The court is going to see that its orders are obeyed, and in this case, I am going to give you the maximum sentence."

Judge M. F. Donegan, district judge, was speaking from the bench. Henry "Doc" Jarek, alleged bootlegger, was before him, being charged with contempt of court for violation of an injunction restraining him from the sale of liquor. He was given a sentence of six months in jail and a fine of $1,000, which means that if he doesn't pay the fine, he stands an excellent opportunity of spending 16 months in the county bastille.

Ludi Also Sentenced.
A few minutes before, Chris Ludi had been brought before Judge Donegan on the same charge, and had

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hacking, snuffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head, soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

been sentenced to serve three months in the county jail and a fine of $200. He will not have to pay the fine until six months.

"These people know the law," Judge Donegan said in passing the sentences. "They know when they violate it, and they know also the penalty for the violations because some of them have paid the penalty before. It looks as if they were presuming on the leniency of the court. The court must see that its orders are upheld, even if it must be strict to a point of severity."

Neither Jarek nor Ludi offered any witnesses. They allowed the prosecution to make its case, and then took their sentences. The two witnesses for the prosecution were J. K. Whitehead and H. D. Moore, Cosson agents, who testified that recently they purchased liquor at Ludi's and Jarek's places.

Betty Handles Prosecution.
Attorney Betty of Davenport and County Attorney C. R. Stafford of Muscatine, handled the case for the prosecution, with Attorney Betty playing the leading role. In summing up the case for the prosecution, Attorney Betty brought out the records from the freight office, showing that Jarek had received much beer during the last three months. Then he asked Judge Donegan to give Jarek the maximum sentence so that he might be an example for those who violate the law.

The sentence imposed on Jarek by Judge Donegan marks the passing of all leniency in dealing with violators of the liquor law, it is believed in court circles. That the court will be severe in handling all cases in the future is said to be certain, following the action of Judge Donegan.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT LEFT FROM HARVEST

Melbourne, Australia.—The government's purchase of 15 large steamships in England to be operated by the commonwealth in the movement of Australian wheat to Europe will not go far towards solving the problem. The steamers have a total cargo capacity of 120,000 tons, but it is doubtful if they can make more than two trips each to Europe before the end of the year, and this will dispose of only 9,000,000 bushels of the huge quantity of the cereal that is awaiting shipment here.

Australia has almost 100,000,000 bushels of wheat stored in sheds or beginning to sprout in stacks where storage is unavailable in country railroad yards, and the commonwealth's next wheat harvest is already in sight to further complicate the problem. The government's purchase of the steamers is hailed by the labor party with gratification, for the establishment of a government owned fleet has long been a plank in its platform.

ALLAN L. BENSON WILL SPEAK HERE

Presidential Candidate of Socialist Party Will Give Address at Illinois Theatre Sept. 12.

WILL BE SECOND TO APPEAR

Prohibition Aspirant for Chief Executive of United States Will Precede Detroit Man Four Days.

Rock Island people will have the opportunity of hearing at least two presidential candidates before the election in November. Announcement is made today that Allan L. Benson, socialist candidate, will make an address at the Illinois theatre on Sept. 12. It has previously been announced that J. Frank Hanly, prohibition candidate, will be here Sept. 8.

Arrangements for the entertainment of Mr. Benson are in the hands of the local socialist party committee. The committee is looking forward to a large attendance at the Illinois theatre, as this will mark Mr. Benson's first appearance in this city. The fact, too, that he is a presidential candidate will be incentive for many to attend.

A continuous struggle against odds is the sum and substance of the biography of Mr. Benson. Allan L. Benson, son of Adelbert L. and Rose Morris Benson, was born in Plainwell, Allegan county, Michigan, Nov. 6, 1871. His father, in early life was a factory worker, later a country miller. His mother died when he was an infant, and he lived until he was 12 years old with his grandfather, a farmer, at Silver Creek, Mich. He attended district school, and when he was 14 years old, worked on a farm for $8 a month. At the age of 15 his father's mill having burned, he was compelled to forego his intention to go to college and become a lawyer. He left home and found work in a chair factory at $3.50 a week. After a year of this he went to work in a paper mill. While thus engaged at Oshtemo, Mich., he became a friend of Chauncey A. Barnes, the village druggist, who was also school director. Mr. Barnes obtained for young Benson an opportunity to become janitor of the village school at $19 a month and go to school. A year in the Oshtemo high school was the only schooling Benson ever had aside from the district school. Before the end of the year he took a teacher's examination and was given a certificate entitling him to teach a district school. In Gunplains township he was hired to teach a winter term in a country school where the regular practice of some of the farmer boys was to thrash the teacher. About two months after the term began, they tried to whip Benson. He cleaned the school out—but rather too vigorously—the school directors thought he had gone too far, though he had done nothing more than use his fists. Benson, who had already discovered that country school teaching did not interest him, promptly resigned, and began to lay plans to get into a large city and do newspaper work.

His interest in newspaper work arose from the fact that while in school at Oshtemo, a paragraph that he wrote for the village editor brought him an offer of $2 a week to turn in local items.

Becomes Reporter.

Benson and a farmer boy whom he had stimulated with dreams of conquest in the city, left Oshtemo in April, 1891. At Kalamazoo they flipped coins to determine whether they should go to Chicago, as Benson wanted to do, or to Detroit. The other boy won. In Detroit they both went to work for the Peninsular Car company, Benson working as a machine hand. Every Saturday afternoon Benson laid off to scour the Detroit newspaper offices for a job as reporter. The next month he found such a job—at $6 a week. He had borrowed $5 from Mr. Barnes to make the trip and out of this wage he saved the $5—eating whenever the necessary money was available.

In the fall, Benson went to Ann Arbor as the managing editor of the Washtenaw Daily Times. The following spring, he became one of the telegraph editors of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. During the next 14 years he was successively telegraph editor of the Salt Lake Tribune, a newspaper writer in San Francisco, assistant managing editor of the Detroit Journal and managing editor of the Washington (D. C.) Times.

It was while Benson was the editor of the Detroit Times that he became a socialist. He promptly began writing socialist editorials for the paper, and continued to do so, finally in violation of orders. After two years he left the Times—resigned—because of bitter disagreement with the publisher over socialism.

For the past nine years Benson has been a magazine writer in New York. He is married, has four children, lives in Yonkers, a suburb of New York, does his writing at home and seldom goes to the office of the magazine for which he works.

On his campaign tour Mr. Benson is accompanied by George H. Goebel of Newark, N. J., who is one of the pioneers among socialist speakers in America. Mr. Goebel will precede Mr. Benson on the platform.

EMPLOYEES WILL NOT QUIT POSTS

At Least That Is the Belief of Local Railroad Officials—Loyalty and Pension Hold Them.

When questioned on the matter today local railroad officials appeared confident that even in case of a general strike enough men would remain at work to keep the trains moving. The Milwaukee and C. & B. & Q. roads both rely upon the loyalty of their old employees, as does the Rock Island. It is further pointed out by officials that the Rock Island employees with their admirable pension system will think twice before they quit work. According to the statement made by one railroad man a strike of even 15 minutes on the part of any employee invalidates the pension system in so far as it may apply to him. It is further stated that many of the old employees of the roads who are now retired and on pension will respond to their old employers in time of need and volunteer to return to service in case of a strike.
